

ABSTRACT

This invention is directed to a computerized system and method for modifying an executing target software application segmented into grains according to a hot
5 pack without halting its execution. Modification can be performed according to second version object code contained within said hot pack. Modifications can be performed immediately upon receipt of the hot pack or during the subsequent resumption of execution of the target application.

10

15

J:\CLIENTS\Ptu\ptu02 (Client)\Client.pa.doc